MULTIVARIATE ANALYSIS -

- As we can see the value of original Price and Discount Price is correlated which shows that the product with High price has high discount too.
- Ratings have negative .14 relation with original Price which shows that ratings are low for high price products. One reason for this can be high price from which buyers cannot be satisfied.

CONCLUSION -

- Those products which have less Ratings and reviews we can recheck them and there quality why they have negative ratings take some action on selling them.
- We can advertise those products who has high and reviews to make it more profitable.
- We can make good partnership with those brands which have positive reviews or ratings by customers.
- We can increase discount offer on those products which have low ratings to increase there demand in market.
